1 added later through the supplemental pleading, were granted leave to join in this summary
2 judgment motion. Dkt. No. 121. Plaintiff filed an opposition which is accompanied by a 3 declaration and a “responsive separate statement.” Dkt. Nos. 133, 133-1, 134.³
4 Defendants filed a reply. Dkt. No. 136.

5 Plaintiff has again filed an overly lengthy declaration which is inappropriate. Dkt.
6 No. 133-1. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56(c)(4) provides that a declaration used to 7 support or oppose a motion for summary judgment “must be made on personal knowledge, 8 set out facts that would be admissible in evidence, and show that the affiant or declarant is 9 competent to testify on the matters stated.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(4). Plaintiff states on 10 page one that the declaration contains “facts based on [his] own knowledge, except as to 11 those matters expressly based on information and belief, which [he] believe[s] to be true.” 12 Dkt. No. 133-1 at 1. However, the following 69 pages are full of legal arguments and 13 conclusory assertions rather than facts based on personal knowledge. Id. at 2-70. The 14 Court already struck prior declarations under Civil Local Rule 7-5(b) because they were 15 excessive and contained “inappropriate legal arguments.” See Dkt. No. 125 at 3; Dkt. No.
16 131 at 4. Plaintiff was twice made aware of the problems with his prior declarations and 17 has again failed to comply with those warnings. Accordingly, the Court finds the instant 18 declaration must also be stricken under Local Rule 7-5(b) and will not consider it in 19 deciding Defendants’ summary judgment motion.

DISCUSSION

I. Statement of Facts⁴

Plaintiff challenges five Rules Violation Reports (“RVR”) for which he was found guilty after disciplinary proceedings concluded. The RVRs all concern a series of anonymous letters which threatened various prison staff and private citizens. Plaintiff claims that his right to procedural due process was violated during the disciplinary proceedings based on the following: (1) inadequate notice of the charges; and (2) lack of indicia of reliability for the confidential information used in the disciplinary hearings. Dkt. No. 15 at 12, Dkt. No. 15-1 at 24, 27; Dkt. No. 28 at 3-10.

A. Threatening Letters

Beginning in 2014, there was an increase in the number of threatening letters found by SQSP personnel. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 3; Petrovic Decl. ¶ 3. Throughout 2015 and into 2016, these letters continued to be found, primarily in the West Block housing unit of SQSP. Id. The letters were directed at various prison staff and some private citizens. Id. The threats were violent in nature, usually threatening to kill or cause serious bodily injury that would lead to death. Id. The letters also threatened the subjects with rape and rape with foreign objects, among other violent crimes. Id.

The Investigative Services Unit (“ISU”) of SQSP investigated the letters. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 4; Petrovic Decl. ¶ 4. The ISU is an elite unit that is tasked with the investigation of all types of criminal activity occurring within and outside the prison, including possession of contraband, gang activity, assaults, homicides, drug overdoses, allegations of sexual assault, and confidential staff complaints, among others. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 4. Defendant Dorsey, a Correctional Lieutenant at the time, was supervising the unit conducting the investigation into the anonymous letters. Dorsey Decl. ¶ 3. Under Defendant Dorsey was Defendant D. Petrovic, a Correctional Sergeant with the ISU at the time, who was also involved in the investigation. Petrovic Decl. ¶ 4; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 4.

⁴ The following facts are undisputed unless otherwise indicated.

1 Defendant Petrovic was the director supervisor of Defendant M. Giacomazzi, a 2 Correctional Officer with ISU at the time, who was the lead investigator. Giacomazzi 3 Decl. ¶ 4; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 4. Through a combination of confidential information, 4 circumstantial evidence, and physical evidence, the ISU determined that Plaintiff was 5 responsible for the threatening letters. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 5; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 4.

6 As part of his investigation, Defendant Giacomazzi conducted a search of Plaintiff's 7 cell on or about February 4, 2016, during which several exemplars of Plaintiff's writings 8 were located and compared to the threatening letters. Dkt. No. 15 at 12; Giacomazzi Decl.
9 ¶ 9. An FBI agent was unable to determine conclusively that Plaintiff was the author nor 10 rule him out, and fingerprint analysis was also inconclusive. Id. ¶¶ 10, 11. According to 11 Defendant Giacomazzi, some of the letters made use of forgery, and a review of Plaintiff's 12 disciplinary history revealed he has a history of forgery. Id. ¶ 12.

13 Defendant Petrovic authored a confidential memorandum ("memo") which 14 contained evidence from several confidential sources. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 6; Petrovic 15 Decl. ¶ 4. The information in the memo was classified as confidential because revealing it 16 may have endangered the safety of individuals and the security of SQSP. Dorsey Decl. ¶ 17 22. The memo was completed on March 7, 2016. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 6; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 4.
18 Defendant Giacomazzi completed the investigation on March 9, 2016. Giacomazzi Decl. ¶ 19 4; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 4. The memo was reviewed and approved on March 18, 2016, by 20 Captain N. Avila, the Facility Captain for West Block of SQSP. Petrovic Decl. ¶ 5.
21 According to Defendants, the information provided by the confidential informants was 22 determined to be reliable pursuant to § 61020.9.1 of the Department Operations Manual 23 ("DOM") and Title 15, § 3321(c)(2), (c)(4) in that the information was corroborated by 24 additional information independently provided by other informants. Id. ¶ 6. Some of the 25 information was also corroborated through investigation or by information provided by 26 non-confidential sources. Id.

1 B. Prison Disciplinary Procedures

2 When an inmate engages in misconduct that is believed to be a violation of law or 3 not minor in character, it is reported in an RVR. Johnson Decl. ¶ 4, Ex. D-001.⁵ When an 4 RVR is issued, the inmate must be served usually within 15 days of the date on which the 5 prison staff discovered the information which led to the charges. Id. ¶ 12, Ex. D-009. In 6 the case when an RVR is ordered re-heard, the time limitations commence from the date of 7 the order for re-hearing. Id.

8 If an RVR involves the use of confidential information, an inmate is notified with a 9 “Confidential Information Disclosure Form” (Form 1030), which indicates that 10 information received from a confidential source has been considered in the RVR, the basis 11 for its reliability, the disclosed information, and the type and current location of the 12 documentation. See, e.g., Johnson Decl., Ex. A; Dkt. No. 80-9 at 8-13.

13 An inmate may get a Staff Assistant (“SA”) appointed to them during the RVR 14 process. Johnson Decl., Ex. D-004. An SA is assigned to an inmate when the inmate is 15 illiterate or non-English speaking, when the complexity of the case makes assistance 16 necessary, or when an inmate’s disability makes assistance necessary. Johnson Decl. ¶ 8, 17 Ex. D-004. An SA will inform an accused inmate of their rights and of disciplinary 18 hearing procedures. Id. ¶ 9. The SA will also advise and assist in the inmate’s preparation 19 for disciplinary hearing, represent the inmate’s position at the hearing, and ensure that the 20 inmate’s position is understood, and that the inmate understands the judgment reached. Id.
21 The SA is not to give legal counsel, nor specify the position the inmate should take in the 22 hearing. Id.

23 An inmate may also get an Investigate Employee (“IE”) appointed to them during 24 the RVR process. Johnson Decl., Ex. D-008. An IE is appointed when the complexity of 25 the case requires further investigation, an inmate’s housing makes it unlikely the inmate

⁵ Defendants’ exhibits have been numbered “for ease of reference” as “Ex. D-001” for the 28 first page of Exhibit D, “Ex. D-002” for the second page of Exhibit D, etc. Dkt. No. 80 at 9, fn. 2.

1 can adequately collect and present evidence, or when a determination has been made that 2 additional information is necessary for a fair hearing. Johnson Decl. ¶ 10, Ex. D-004. An 3 IE will interview the charged inmate, gather information, question all staff and inmates 4 who may have relevant information, screen prospective witnesses, and submit a written 5 report to the Senior Hearing Officer (“SHO”) which will contain witness statements and a 6 summary of the information collected. Id. ¶ 11, Ex. D-004, 005.

7 Generally, an RVR will be heard within 30 days of the inmate being served. The 8 hearing may be postponed upon the inmate’s request or if exceptional circumstances exist.
9 Id. ¶ 12, Ex. D-009.

10 The hearing for an RVR is overseen by the SHO. Spurgeon Decl. ¶ 5; Haub Decl. ¶
11 5; Walls Decl. ¶ 5. The role of SHO in a prison disciplinary hearing is analogous to a 12 judge in criminal proceeding. Id. The SHO will ultimately determine whether the accused 13 is guilty or not, but also make determinations during the hearing such as whether a 14 question put to a witness is relevant or not, or even whether the witness testimony sought 15 is necessary. Haub Decl. ¶ 5; Walls Decl. ¶ 5. The SHO will also review whether the 16 inmate has been adequately noticed of the charges and that all evidence classified as 17 confidential has been accurately classified. Spurgeon Decl. ¶ 5; Haub Decl. ¶ 4; Walls
18 Decl. ¶ 4. The role of SHO is usually fulfilled by Correctional Lieutenants. Spurgeon
19 Decl. ¶ 4; Haub Decl. ¶ 3; Walls Decl. ¶ 3. Correctional Lieutenants will be assigned RVR 20 hearings on a rotating basis, as needed. Id. The SHO must be independent and cannot 21 have taken part in the underlying RVR investigation. Id. In the event an RVR is ordered 22 re-issued and re-heard, a new SHO must be assigned. Spurgeon Decl. ¶ 7; Haub Decl. ¶ 3; 23 Walls Decl. ¶ 3.

24 C. Plaintiff’s RVRs

25 Plaintiff challenges the following five RVRs: Log Nos. 4671, 4973, 6610, 6611, 26 and 6612. Dkt. No. 15 at 15, 27. Each of these RVRs involved the use of confidential 27 information and therefore was accompanied by Form 1030s. Johnson Decl. ¶ 20, Ex. A.
28 RVR Nos. 4671, 4973, 6611, and 6612 were each re-issued and re-heard because 1 unauthorized staff had been present during the deliberations and because the nature of the 2 allegations required Plaintiff to be referred for a mental health evaluation prior to a 3 hearing, which he had not been for the initial hearing for these four RVRs. Dorsey Decl. ¶

4 20. RVR No. 6610 was re-issued and re-heard twice due to deficiencies under Title 15, 5 until a third and final re-hearing on the matter. Spurgeon Decl. ¶ 6; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 8.

6 At the conclusion of each subsequent disciplinary proceeding, Plaintiff was found 7 guilty by a preponderance of the evidence of all five re-issued RVRs, which resulted in the 8 loss of credits.⁶

9 1. RVR Log No. 4671⁷

10 In RVR Log No. 4671 (“RVR 4671”), Plaintiff was charged with violation of Title 11 15 § 3005(a), with the specific act of “Harassment of another person.” Dorsey Decl. ¶ 10; 12 Giacomazzi Decl., Ex. A-001. Title 15, § 3005(a) prohibits an inmate from behaving in a 13 way which might lead to violence or disorder, or otherwise endangers the facility, outside 14 community, or another person. Walls Decl. ¶ 8. RVR 4671 was authored by Defendant 15 Giacomazzi, reviewed by Defendant Petrovic, and classified by Defendant Dorsey.
16 Giacomazzi Decl., Ex. A-002; Petrovic Decl. ¶ 7; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 8; Walls Decl. ¶ 7.

17 On May 2, 2016, RVR 4671 was ordered to be re-issued and re-heard due to due 18 process concerns in the original proceedings. Giacomazzi Decl., Ex. A-001. Defendant

20 served on Plaintiff on May 6, 2016, which was within 15 days of the date of the order for

22 informed Plaintiff that an investigation by the ISU into the author of anonymous letters 23 was concluded on March 9, 2016, and that the author was determined to be Plaintiff.

25 ⁶ Because Plaintiff is serving an indeterminate life sentence and his minimum eligible 26 parole date had passed, the loss of credits did not push back his release date or the date of 27 his parole eligibility. Dkt. No. 14 at 2-3. As such, the Court found that success on his claims would not necessarily shorten his sentence and therefore could proceed under a § 1983 action rather than a habeas action. Id. at 3.

17 notice advised Plaintiff that based on a confidential memorandum dated March 7, 2016,

12 II. Summary Judgment

13 Summary judgment is proper where the pleadings, discovery and affidavits show 14 that there is “no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to 15 judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). A court will grant summary judgment 16 “against a party who fails to make a showing sufficient to establish the existence of an 17 element essential to that party’s case, and on which that party will bear the burden of proof 18 at trial . . . since a complete failure of proof concerning an essential element of the 19 nonmoving party’s case necessarily renders all other facts immaterial.” Celotex Corp. v.
20 Cattrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322-23 (1986). A fact is material if it might affect the outcome of 21 the lawsuit under governing law, and a dispute about such a material fact is genuine “if the 22 evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party.”
23 Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986).

24 Generally, the moving party bears the initial burden of identifying those portions of 25 the record which demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. See Celotex 26 Corp., 477 U.S. at 323. Where the moving party will have the burden of proof on an issue 27 at trial, it must affirmatively demonstrate that no reasonable trier of fact could find other 28 than for the moving party. But on an issue for which the opposing party will have the

1 burden of proof at trial, the moving party need only point out “that there is an absence of 2 evidence to support the nonmoving party’s case.” Id. at 325. If the evidence in opposition 3 to the motion is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment may 4 be granted. See Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 249-50.

5 The burden then shifts to the nonmoving party to “go beyond the pleadings and by 6 her own affidavits, or by the ‘depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on 7 file,’ designate specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.” Celotex 8 Corp., 477 U.S. at 324 (citations omitted); Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e). “This burden is not a 9 light one. The non-moving party must show more than the mere existence of a scintilla of 10 evidence.” In re Oracle Corporation Securities Litigation, 627 F.3d 376, 387 (9th Cir.
11 2010) (citing Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 252). “The non-moving party must do more than 12 show there is some ‘metaphysical doubt’ as to the material facts at issue.” Id. (citing 13 Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co., Ltd. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586 (1986)). “In 14 fact, the non-moving party must come forth with evidence from which a jury could 15 reasonably render a verdict in the non-moving party’s favor.” Id. (citing Liberty Lobby, 16 477 U.S. at 252). If the nonmoving party fails to make this showing, “the moving party is 17 entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Id. at 323.

18 The Court’s function on a summary judgment motion is not to make credibility 19 determinations or weigh conflicting evidence with respect to a material fact. See T.W.
20 Elec. Serv., Inc. V. Pacific Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d 626, 630 (9th Cir. 1987).
21 The evidence must be viewed in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, and the 22 inferences to be drawn from the facts must be viewed in a light most favorable to the 23 nonmoving party. See id. at 631. It is not the task of the district court to scour the record 24 in search of a genuine issue of triable fact. Keenan v. Allen, 91 F.3d 1275, 1279 (9th Cir.
25 1996). The nonmoving party has the burden of identifying with reasonable particularity 26 the evidence that precludes summary judgment. Id. If the nonmoving party fails to do so, 27 the district court may properly grant summary judgment in favor of the moving party. See 28 id.; see, e.g., Carmen v. San Francisco Unified School District, 237 F.3d 1026, 1028-29

1 (9th Cir. 2001).

2 A. Due Process

3 Prisoners retain their right to due process subject to the restrictions imposed by the 4 nature of the penal system. See Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 556 (1974). Thus 5 although prison disciplinary proceedings are not part of a criminal prosecution and the full 6 panoply of rights due a defendant in such proceedings does not apply, where serious rules 7 violations are alleged and the sanctions to be applied implicate state statutes or regulations 8 which narrowly restrict the power of prison officials to impose the sanctions and the 9 sanctions are severe, the Due Process Clause requires certain minimum procedural 10 protections. See id. at 556-57, 571-72 n.19. The placement of a California prisoner in 11 isolation or segregation, or the assessment of good-time credits against him, as a result of 12 disciplinary proceedings, for example, is subject to Wolff's procedural protections if (1) 13 state statutes or regulations narrowly restrict the power of prison officials to impose the 14 deprivation, and (2) the liberty in question is one of "real substance." See Sandin v.
15 Conner, 515 U.S. 472, 477-87 (1995).

16 California's regulations concerning discipline provide explicit standards that 17 narrowly fetter official discretion. Under California Code of Regulations title 15, section 18 3320(l), officials must find that a preponderance of the evidence substantiates the charge 19 before guilt may be found and punishment assessed. Absent such a finding the inmate may 20 not be placed in isolation nor segregation, nor assessed good-time credits. See also Cal.
21 Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3320(a) (requiring notice); id. § 3320(b) (requiring hearing). Because 22 a prisoner may not be disciplined unless explicit substantive and procedural requirements 23 are met, the disciplinary standards and procedures meet the "narrowly restrict" prong of 24 the Sandin test. See Walker v. Sumner, 14 F.3d 1415, 1419 (9th Cir. 1994) (finding 25 Nevada regulations, which are similar to California's, create liberty interest). Here, it is 26 undisputed that Plaintiff was entitled to Wolff's procedural protections in the disciplinary 27 proceedings at issue.

1 Wolff established five procedural requirements. First, “written notice of the 2 charges must be given to the disciplinary-action defendant in order to inform him of the 3 charges and to enable him to marshal the facts and prepare a defense.” Wolff, 418 U.S. at 4 564. Second, “at least a brief period of time after the notice, no less than 24 hours, should 5 be allowed to the inmate to prepare for the appearance before the [disciplinary 6 committee].” Id. Third, “there must be a ‘written statement by the factfinders as to the 7 evidence relied on and reasons’ for the disciplinary action.” Id. (quoting Morrissey v.
8 Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 489 (1972)). Fourth, “the inmate facing disciplinary proceedings 9 should be allowed to call witnesses and present documentary evidence in his defense when 10 permitting him to do so will not be unduly hazardous to institutional safety or correctional 11 goals.” Id. at 566. Fifth, “[w]here an illiterate inmate is involved... or where the 12 complexity of the issues makes it unlikely that the inmate will be able to collect and 13 present the evidence necessary for an adequate comprehension of the case, he should be 14 free to seek the aid of a fellow inmate, or... to have adequate substitute aid... from the 15 staff or from a[n]... inmate designated by the staff.” Wolff, 418 U.S. at 570. The 16 Supreme Court specifically held that the Due Process Clause does not require that prisons 17 allow inmates to cross-examine their accusers, see id. at 567-68, and does not give rise to a 18 right to counsel in the proceedings, see id. at 569-70.

19 The fact that a prisoner may have been innocent of the charges does not raise a due 20 process issue. The Constitution demands due process, not error-free decision-making. See 21 Ricker v. Leapley, 25 F.3d 1406, 1410 (8th Cir. 1994); McCrae v. Hankins, 720 F.2d 863, 22 868 (5th Cir. 1983).

23 Because the due process errors from the initial hearings were corrected during the 24 administrative appeal process, the Court determined that Plaintiff has no claim for a due 25 process violation based on those initial proceedings. Dkt. No. 28 at 5-6, citing Frank v.
26 Schultz, 808 F.3d 762, 763-64 (9th Cir. 2015) (summary judgment properly granted for 27 defendants because any procedural protection was corrected through administrative appeal 28 process and plaintiff did not lose good time credits). The administrative appeal process is 1 considered “part of the due process” provided to the prisoner. See id.

2 1. Notice Requirement

3 Plaintiff alleged in the FAC that the five RVRs contained inadequate notice 4 regarding the charges because they did not describe the date, time, or place of the alleged 5 misbehavior. Dkt. No. 15 at 12.

6 a. Parties' Arguments

7 Defendants assert that for each of the five RVRs in question, Plaintiff was served 8 with an RVR which contained a brief description of the allegations against him in a section 9 entitled circumstances of the violation. Dkt. No. 80 at 23. Defendants assert that the 10 circumstances of violation section of the RVRs advised Plaintiff of the dates, or 11 approximate dates, of when the letters were discovered, who the targets of the letters were 12 (when it could be determined), the text of the letters, and other details such as when a letter 13 contained human feces. Id., citing Giacomazzi Decl. Exs. A-E. Defendants assert that this 14 section also indicated to Plaintiff that he had demonstrated a pattern of behavior which also 15 was weighed as evidence in the investigation. Id. Lastly, Defendants assert that Plaintiff 16 was noticed that the increase in anonymous threatening letters coincided with his arrival at 17 SQSP, and had ceased since he was moved to the Adjustment Center. Id. Furthermore, 18 Defendants point out that in each RVR, Plaintiff was allowed an IE and an SA. Id. at 24, 19 citing Johnson Decl. ¶ 7. Defendants assert that Plaintiff was able to draft questions for 20 the IE to put to various witnesses, and an IE report was written. Id., citing Spurgeon Decl., 21 Ex. B-002-007; Haub Decl., Ex. B-002-005; Walls Decl., Ex. B-002-005, D-003-006, F-
22 002-006. Lastly, Defendants assert that in each of the RVR disciplinary hearing results, 23 Plaintiff was able to provide a statement in his defense which was essentially an alibi 24 defense in which he attempted to show that he was not in West Block during the relevant 25 period when the letters were discovered. Id., citing Spurgeon Decl., Ex. A-008; Haub 26 Decl., Ex. A-005-006; Walls Decl., Ex. A-005, C-005, E-005-006. Defendants assert that 27 Plaintiff's statement in defense of himself at each RVR hearing demonstrates that he had a 28 good understanding of the charges. Id. Defendants contend that the undisputed facts show

1 that Plaintiff had adequate notice of the charges against him and an opportunity to mount a 2 defense. Id.

3 Defendants also reject Plaintiff's argument in his FAC, which relies on Penal Code 4 § 2932, subdivision (c)(1)(A), which requires in part that "written notice shall be given 5 within 15 days after the discovery of information leading to charges that may result in 6 possible denial of credit" and include "the specific charge, the date, the time, the place that 7 the alleged misbehavior took place, the evidence relied upon, a written explanation of the 8 procedures that will be employed at the proceedings and the prisoner's rights at the 9 hearing...." Defendants essentially assert that they did not violate § 2932, subd. (c)(1)(A) 10 because Plaintiff was given notice of the charge he was facing and that the several 11 threatening letters demonstrated a pattern or a course of conduct rather than a single event.
12 Dkt. No. 80 at 24. Defendants assert that in the context of these allegations, the material 13 dates and locations may be when or where the letters were written or mailed, or when or 14 where they were received or discovered. Id. at 24-29. Defendants contend that Plaintiff 15 was given either specific or approximate dates of discovery or all the letters that were at 16 issue in the RVRs. Id. at 25, citing Giacomazzi Decl., Ex. A-001, B-001, C-001, D-001, 17 and E-001. Defendants assert that Plaintiff was also advised that the letters originated 18 from the West Block of SQSP, and that there seemed to be a part of a pattern of 19 threatening notes that started in 2014. Id. Defendants contend that this information was 20 more than adequate notice. Id.

21 In opposition, Plaintiff asserts various deficiencies which he alleges for the first 22 time. First, with respect RVR 4671, Plaintiff asserts that the RVR cited to a rule which did 23 not mention "harassment of another person" and failed to provide definitions for 24 "harassment" and "course of conduct," which he needed to marshal facts to formulate an 25 adequate defense. Dkt. No. 133 at 2. He also asserts that RVR 4671 failed to adequately 26 provide the correct date, time, and place of the alleged misbehavior such that his alibi 27 defense was inadequate. Id. at 3-5. Plaintiff also asserts that the notice for RVR 4671 was 28 untimely, id. at 5-6, and that the charged regulation was an "underground rule/regulation"

1 which only accessible to certain staff members and not to inmates, id. at 6-7. He further 2 claims that the notice was defective because he was not provided with a copy of the 3 anonymous note prior to the hearing so that he could adequately challenge it. Id. at 8.

4 As for Rule 4973, Plaintiff asserts that the cited regulation was also inadequate and 5 needed clarification, which hampered his ability to present a defense. Dkt. No. 10. He 6 asserts that the RVR was improperly upgraded from a misdemeanor to a felony, and that 7 he was incorrectly charged because Nurse Wedlake was not a “public official.” Id. at 10-8 11. He also asserts that the date, time, and place of the alleged misbehavior was incorrect 9 and insufficient for him to marshal an adequate alibi defense. Id. at 11-12. Plaintiff also 10 challenges the timeliness of the RVR 4973 notice, id. at 13-14, and that it was based on 11 subdivision which is an “underground rule/regulation.” Id. at 15.

12 With respect to RVRs 6610, 6611, and 6612, Plaintiff asserts that the fact that these 13 RVRs each concern multiple notes renders them “inadequate/defective” because it was 14 “impossible to fairly decide multiple specific acts all packed into one single RVR.” Id. at 15 18. Plaintiff claims this circumstance “created fundamentally defective ‘notice’ for each 16 RVR that amounted to a ‘miscarriage of justice.’” Id. He also asserts the RVRs all gave 17 incorrect notice of the date, time, and location of the violations which hampered his efforts 18 to marshal facts for his defense. Id. at 19. He also asserts that the RVRs were untimely, 19 and that the charges were “woven together even though they had different elements to be 20 proven” which made them confusing and in need of clarification. Id. at 20. He also asserts 21 that the charges involved “underground rule/regulations,” and needed clarification. Id. at 22 21-22.

23 In reply, Defendants asserts that Plaintiff offers no evidence of his own to support 24 his claim regarding lack of notice and that he does not challenge their evidence. Dkt. No.
25 136 at 1. Defendants assert that the time and place of the alleged violations were 26 adequately described: the date the anonymous notes were discovered and the location of 27 the discovery, i.e., the institutional mail system. Id. at 2. While Plaintiff appears to 28 contend that the RVRs must identify the precise time the anonymous letters were written

1 and the location of their writing, Defendants assert that such details are not necessary to 2 satisfy due process. Id. Defendants assert that Plaintiff's position creates an unrealistic 3 standard that would effectively prevent the prosecution of any anonymous threatening 4 letters. Id. at 3.

5 Defendant also asserts that the opposition asserts new, unpled allegations of 6 deficiencies, which the Court should not consider because they were not screened and are 7 not part of this case. Id. at 2. Furthermore, Defendants assert that each of the new 8 allegations lack evidentiary support and/or is not itself a cognizable claim. Id. With 9 respect to Plaintiff's allegations regarding "underground rule/regulations," Defendants 10 assert that he was noticed of the broader rule violation codes, i.e., 3005(a) and 3005(d)(1), 11 which correspond directly to Cal. Code Regs. Tit. 15, § 3005 subdivisions. Id. at 5.
12 Defendants assert that it matters not that Plaintiff did not have access to the computer 13 system that provided the subdivisions to receive adequate notice because the RVRs plainly 14 stated the "specific act" for which he was charged; therefore, the significance of the 15 bracketed portions of the rule violation codes is irrelevant. Id. Defendants also point out 16 that the narratives describing the circumstances for each RVR detailed the descriptions of 17 Plaintiff's alleged conduct, putting him on notice of the charges regardless of whether he 18 was informed of the exact meaning of the bracketed portion of the rule violation code. Id.

19 Defendants also assert that untimely notice is not a due process violation. Id. at 6.
20 Furthermore, Defendants asserts that they did not know who authored the anonymous 21 letters until their investigation was completed on March 9, 2016, which was much later 22 than the date the anonymous letters were discovered, as Plaintiff contends. Id. Defendants 23 also contend that the fact that the charge in RVR 4973 – threatening to cause serious 24 bodily injury to a public official – was misclassified as a division "E" offense rather than a 25 division "B" offense, is irrelevant because the RVR nevertheless described the alleged 26 conduct and the error accrued to Plaintiff's benefit as a division "E" offense carries less 27 credit forfeiture (31-60 days) than a division "B" offense (121-150 days). Id. at 8, citing 28 Cal. Code Regs. Tit. 15, §§ 3323(d), (g). Defendants contend that Plaintiff's claim that RVR 4973 was improperly upgraded from a misdemeanor to a felony is false because the prison disciplinary hearings are not criminal in nature, and that the initial report for RVR 4973 stated, “FELONY PROSECUTION LIKELY: No.” Dkt. No. 80-8 (Giacomazzi Decl.) at 10. Defendants also assert that Nurse Wedlake was properly identified as a public official for the purposes of RVR 4973 under Cal. Code Regs. Tit. 15, § 3000, as a member of the CDCR staff under Penal Code § 76. Id. at 8-9. Furthermore, Defendants contend that Plaintiff’s argument that the letter in RVR 4973 was not actually threatening is irrelevant on the issue of whether he received adequate notice of the charge; he received adequate notice because the letter’s language was reproduced in full in the RVR. Id. at 9. Lastly, Defendants contend that Plaintiff’s argument that RVR 6612 was improperly charged because it referenced multiple anonymous letters is incorrect because Cale. Code Regs. Tit. 15, § 3312 specific prohibits stacking. Id. Defendants also assert that the fact that the letters were charged collectively benefitted Plaintiff because he could have received six guilty findings, each with a corresponding loss of credits, rather than one. Id.

b. Analysis

The Ninth Circuit’s most recent discussion of Wolff’s notice requirement was in Ashker v. Newsom, 81 F.4th 863 (9th Cir. 2023). The Ninth Circuit noted that it had not expounded on the specificity of the notice required by Wolff. Id. at 879. The appellate court referred to its last decision on this issue in Zimmerlee v. Keeney, wherein the court stated: “When determining the extent of notice required, we must ‘remember “the legitimate institutional needs of assuring the safety of inmates and prisoners” and avoid “burdensome administrative requirements that might be susceptible to manipulation.”’” Id. at 878, quoting Zimmerlee, 831 F.2d at 188 (citing Superintendent v. Hill, 472 U.S. 445, 454-55 (1985)). “Due process... is satisfied if the inmate receives written notice of the charges, and a statement of the evidence relied on by the prison officials and reasons for the disciplinary action.” Zimmerlee, 831 F.2d at 186. In holding that inaccurate disclosures of confidential information did not violate Wolff, the Ninth Circuit found, among other things, that discrepancies between confidential memorandum and the

1 disclosure form did not deprive the inmate of notice of the charges against him and his 2 ability to defend against charges. Ashker, 81 F.4th at 879-880. In reaching this decision, 3 the appellate court also cited a Second Circuit case which held that notice satisfying due 4 process “need not painstakingly detail all facts relevant to the date, place, and manner of 5 charged inmate misconduct; it must simply permit a reasonable person to understand what 6 conduct is at issue so that he may identify relevant evidence and present a defense.” Id. at 7 879, quoting Elder v. McCarthy, 967 F.3d 113, 128 (2d Cir. 2020) (cleaned up).

8 Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, the Court finds there is 9 no genuine dispute of material fact with respect to Plaintiff’s notice claim against 10 Defendants. Firstly, Plaintiff does not submit any admissible evidence to dispute 11 Defendants’ evidence. Rather, his exhibits in support of the opposition are mostly 12 duplicative of the RVR record provided by Defendants. See Dkt. No. 133-1 at 71-243.
13 Furthermore, Plaintiff attempts to create a dispute by asserting that the RVRs do not 14 comply with state regulations and the fact that outdated forms were used. See, e.g., Dkt.
15 No. 134 at 2-5. However, these disputes do not involve material facts, and, even if viewed 16 in Plaintiff’s favor, do not establish that notice was deficient under Wolff. Plaintiff also 17 disputes whether the appropriate “date of discovery” was used, asserting that it should be 18 the dates the anonymous notes were received by the ISU. However, Defendants did not 19 know at that time who was responsible for these anonymous threatening letters to initiate a 20 disciplinary action against the appropriate inmate. Only after Defendants completed their 21 investigation into the matter and determined that Plaintiff was the author of the letters in 22 March 2016, were they able to issue RVRs against him.

23 Contrary to Plaintiff’s claim in the FAC, all the RVRs clearly described the date, 24 time, and place of the alleged misbehavior, i.e., the writing of numerous anonymous 25 threatening letters which were received by the ISU through the institutional mail coming 26 from West Block. See supra at 8-18. This information was sufficient for a “reasonable 27 person” to understand what conduct was at issue. Ashker, 81 F.4th at 879; Elder, 967 F.3d 28 at 128. Furthermore, the RVRs noticed Plaintiff of the following: an investigation had

1 been conducted into the anonymous letters and that Plaintiff had been connected to the 2 letters based on his pattern of hostility towards inmates, staff, and citizens alike; this 3 pattern was also unmistakable in the nature of the threatening letters; the appearance of the 4 letters coincided with his arrival at SQSP and placement in West Block; and the letters had 5 ceased once Plaintiff was moved to the Adjustment Center See supra at 8, 10, 13, 14, 16.
6 Plaintiff was also provided with an IE and SA to assist him in preparing for each of the 7 disciplinary hearings. He met with them prior to the hearings, and they assisted him with 8 getting questions to various witnesses in preparation for the hearing. Haub Decl., Ex. B-9 001-005; Walls Decl., Ex. B-001-005, D-001, D-002-006, E-001, E-002-006; Spurgeon
10 Decl., B-001-007. If there was any confusion or lack of clarity regarding the charges 11 against him, Plaintiff had opportunities to discuss them with the IE and SA, but he did not.
12 Id. Ultimately, the fact that Plaintiff was able to prepare multiple questions for various 13 witnesses and then present a statement containing an alibi defense at each hearing clearly 14 indicates that the RVR notices were sufficient for him to marshal a defense. Haub Decl., 15 Ex. A-005-006; Walls Decl., A-005, C-005, E-006; Spurgeon Decl., A-008.

16 As for Penal Code § 2932, even if Defendants failed to comply with this state 17 regulation, or any other state regulation, it does not rise to a constitutional violation. The 18 Due Process Clause only requires that prisoners be afforded those procedures mandated by 19 Wolff and its progeny; it does not require that prisons comply with its own, more generous 20 procedures. See Walker v. Sumner, 14 F.3d 1415, 1419-20 (9th Cir. 1994). A prisoner's 21 right to due process is violated "only if he [is] not provided with process sufficient to meet 22 the Wolff standard." Id. at 1420. Here, the undisputed evidence clearly shows that 23 Wolff's standard was met.

24 Nor do Plaintiff's other allegations of discrepancies and technicalities regarding 25 notice establish a Wolff violation. See supra at 23-24. None of the newly alleged 26 deficiencies regarding notice, even if true, prevented Plaintiff from preparing and 27 presenting a defense at the re-hearings. Even when the cited regulation was incorrect or 28 unclear, Plaintiff's preparations for the hearings indicate that he nevertheless understood

1 the charges against him. Lastly, timeliness is not at issue here, and Plaintiff's attempt to 2 argue it does not render the notices inadequate.

3 Based on the foregoing, Defendants have demonstrated the absence of a genuine 4 issue of material fact with respect to the due process claim against Defendants. See 5 Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 323. Plaintiff has failed to meet his burden of identifying with 6 reasonable particularity the evidence that precludes summary judgment, see Keenan, 91 7 F.3d at 1279, or submit evidence from which a jury could reasonably render a verdict in 8 his favor, In re Oracle Corporation Securities Litigation, 627 F.3d at 387. Accordingly,
9 Defendants are entitled to summary judgment on the due process claim regarding Wolff's 10 notice requirement as a matter of law. Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 323.

11 2. Confidential Information

12 Plaintiff claims that he was denied his right to due process based on the use of 13 unreliable confidential and non-confidential information in support of the five RVRs at 14 issue. Dkt. No. 15-1 at 24, 27.

15 a. Parties' Arguments

16 Defendants assert that Plaintiff was served with Form 1030s advising him that 17 confidential information was used, how it was deemed reliable, and what information was 18 received. Dkt. No. 80 at 26, citing Johnson Decl. ¶ 20, Ex. A, B, C; Dorsey Decl. ¶ 23.
19 Defendants assert that the disciplinary hearing results for each RVR also contain a 20 confidential information section which indicates that: the SHO reviewed the information, 21 sufficient information was disclosed, a 1030 form was issued, and the reasons why it was 22 correctly deemed confidential and reliable. Id., citing Walls Decl., Ex A-003-004, C-003-
23 004, E-003-004; Spurgeon Decl., Ex. A-003-006; Haub Decl., Ex. A-003. Defendants 24 contend that the undisputed facts show that there was information from which prison 25 officials could deem the confidential information reliable and an affirmative statement 26 from a prison official that disclosing the confidential information would present safety 27 concerns. Dkt. No. 80 at 27.

1 In opposition, Plaintiff asserts for the first time that he received only six (6) Form 2 1030s with RVR 4671 and RVR 4973, in violation of state regulations, and not the 3 remaining twenty-three (23) Form 1030s. Dkt. No. 133 at 9, 16-17. On the other hand, 4 with RVRs 6610, 6611, and 6612, Plaintiff asserts he did not receive the first six Form 5 1030s, while receiving the other 23 Form 1030s. Id. at 22-23. He also asserts that the first 6 six Form 1030s were outdated (over 30 years old) and did not indicate that the information 7 provided was corroborated through investigation or by non-confidential sources. Id. at 9, 8 16-17. He contends this fatal flaw infected the disciplinary hearing findings because the 9 SHO checked boxes for all the Form 1030s, indicating that they were corroborated yet the 10 original Form 1030s lacked this information. Id. Plaintiff also contends the SHO failed to 11 consider that 23 of the Form 1030s were withheld from Plaintiff in violation of state 12 regulations. Id. Plaintiff asserts that there was no factual information from which the 13 SHO could reasonably conclude that the information was reliable. Id. at 23. He also 14 asserts that two of the “non-confidential” information came from himself. Id. Plaintiff 15 contends that there was no “prison official’s affirmative statement that safety 16 considerations prevented the disclosure of at least the dates when the relevant informants 17 provided the confidential information that was proven to be true,” an “oath of the 18 investigating officer... as to the truth of his report that contains confidential information,” 19 or “corroborating testimony.” Id.

20 In reply, Defendants assert that Plaintiff’s claim that confidential information was 21 improperly withheld is contradicted by the factual record which shows that he received all 22 the appropriate Form 1030s with each RVR. Dkt. No. 136 at 7. Defendants contend that 23 confidential information may be withheld based on conditions under Zimmerlee, 831 F.2d 24 at 186. Defendants assert that for each RVR, Plaintiff received Form 1030s which 25 indicated the reason why the confidential information was reliable as well as providing a 26 brief description of the confidential information. Id., citing Johnson Decl. at 5, 8-39.
27 Defendants contend that the hearing results for each RVR indicate the reason for 28 withholding the confidential information, i.e., because the information, if known, would

1 endanger individuals and jeopardize institutional security. Id. Defendants also assert that 2 the hearings results indicate that the Form 1030s were served on Plaintiff the same date as 3 the initial RVR reports. Id., citing Haub Decl. at 7, 9; Walls Decl. at 9, 11-12, 24, 26-27, 4 40, 42-43; Spurgeon Decl. at 8, 10-13. Defendants assert that the prison followed the 5 appropriate procedures by both disclosing the reason why the confidential information was 6 reliable and the reason why withholding the confidential information was necessary. Id., 7 citing Zimmerlee, 831 F.2d at 186. Defendants contend that in addition to being 8 improperly raised for the first time in his opposition, Plaintiff's allegations are not 9 supported by the facts. Id. at 8.

10 b. Analysis

11 In Superintendent v. Hill, 472 U.S. 445, 454 (1985), the Court held that the 12 revocation of good-time credits does not comport with the minimum requirements of 13 procedural due process in Wolff unless the findings of the prison disciplinary board are 14 supported by some evidence in the record. The standard for the modicum of evidence 15 required is met if there was some evidence from which the conclusion of the administrative 16 tribunal could be deduced. Id. at 455. An examination of the entire record is not required 17 nor is an independent assessment of the credibility of witnesses or weighing of the 18 evidence. Id. The relevant question is whether there is any evidence in the record that 19 could support the conclusion reached by the disciplinary board. Id. The Supreme Court 20 reiterated that revocation of good-time credits is not comparable to a criminal conviction 21 and neither the amount of evidence necessary to support such a conviction, nor any other 22 standard greater than some evidence, applies in this context. Id. at 456. The Ninth Circuit 23 additionally has held that there must be some indicia of reliability of the information that 24 forms the basis for prison disciplinary actions. See Cato v. Rushen, 824 F.2d 703, 704-05
25 (9th Cir. 1987) (only evidence implicating defendant placed in disciplinary segregation 26 was uncorroborated hearsay statement of confidential informant who had no first hand 27 knowledge of any relevant statements or actions of defendant and polygraph statement of 28 inmate who made statement was inconclusive). Even so, insufficient reliability

1 determinations alone do not violate due process. Ashker, 81 F.4th at 883 (“it is the lack of 2 ‘some evidence’ that violates due process – not necessarily the lack of sufficient reliability 3 determinations alone”).

4 If the information relied upon by the disciplinary committee are the statements of an 5 unidentified informant, due process requires that the record contain: (1) some factual 6 information from which the committee can reasonably conclude that the information was 7 reliable and (2) a prison official’s affirmative statement that safety considerations prevent 8 the disclosure of the informant’s name. See Zimmerlee, 831 F.2d at 186. Review of both 9 the reliability determination and the safety determination should be deferential. Id.

10 Reliability may be established by: (1) the oath of the investigating officer appearing 11 at the committee as to the truth of his report that contain confidential information, (2) 12 corroborating testimony, (3) a statement on the record by the chairman of the committee 13 that he had firsthand knowledge of sources of information and considered them reliable 14 based on the informant’s past record, or (4) an in camera review of the documentation 15 from which credibility may be assessed. Id. at 186-87. Proof that an informant previously 16 supplied reliable information is sufficient. Id. at 187.

17 Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, the Court finds there is 18 no genuine dispute of material fact with respect to this claim. First of all, the fact that the 19 1030 forms were outdated does not create a genuine issue for trial as the information 20 contained in the outdated forms was not materially different from what the SHO had to 21 indicate in their disciplinary hearing results. Compare, e.g., Dkt. No. 80-4 at 26 with Dkt.
22 No. 133-1 at 128. Even if Plaintiff initially received only six of the Form 1030s, the 23 information contained in these forms constitutes “some evidence” to support the 24 conclusion of the SHOs in RVRs 4671 and 4973. Dkt. No. 133-1 at 128-133. The 25 confidential information included in these six Form 1030s were as follows: (1) six sources
26 identifying Plaintiff as authoring the anonymous notes as well as circumventing the mail 27 procedures in West Block on February 4, 5, 12, 13, and 17, 2016; (2) a source disclosed
28 Plaintiff was writing threatening notes in West Block on February 13, 2016; (3)

1 confidential information was received that Plaintiff was circumventing the mail procedures 2 on February 12, 2026; (4) information was received from a confidential source that 3 Plaintiff was authoring threatening letters as well as circumventing the mail procedures on 4 February 12, 2016; (5) confidential information was received that Plaintiff authored 5 anonymous notes in West Block on February 5, 2016; and (6) confidential information was 6 received identifying Plaintiff as authoring anonymous notes in West Block on February 4, 7 2016. Id. These six Form 1030s all indicated that more than one source independently 8 provided the same information, that part of the information provided by the source(s) has 9 already proven to be true, and that the information was located in a confidential 10 memorandum dated March 7, 2016, authored by Defendant Petrovic. Id.

11 With respect to the remaining 23 Form 1030s, the information contained in these 12 documents also constitute “some evidence” to support the conclusion of the SHOs in 13 RVRs 6610, 6611, and 6612. That information was as follows: (1) Plaintiff had a pattern 14 of hostility towards others, his temper and proclivity for threats and violence; (2) the 15 author had likely recently been severely disappointed and disillusioned, like Plaintiff who 16 had recently lost a lawsuit against his brother for a portion of their mother’s inheritance; 17 (3) the rise of anonymous threatening letters coincided with Plaintiff’s arrival at SQSP and 18 then ceased once he was rehoused in the Adjustment Center; (4) the handwriting was 19 concealed at times through the use of forgery, of which Plaintiff had a history; (5) one 20 inmate whom Plaintiff had assaulted became the victim of an anonymous letter that 21 identified him as a threat; (6) information that Plaintiff had forged another inmate’s 22 handwriting and was in possession of a weapon which evidenced the seriousness of the 23 threats; (7) an informant describing the same weapon that was in Plaintiff’s possession on 24 March 5, 2016; (8) a confidential informant stating that he saw Plaintiff a few times in his 25 cell appearing secretive while writing; (9) a confidential informant stating that he knew for 26 certain Plaintiff was writing threatening notes and utilizing other inmates unknowingly to 27 drop off his letters in the mail; (10) two confidential informants confirming Plaintiff was 28 using other inmates to mail his letters out; (11) several confidential informants expressing

1 fear of Plaintiff and describing him as unstable and volatile; and (12) several confidential
2 informants describing Plaintiff's practice of writing threatening notes to people he did not 3 like. Dkt. No. 133-1 at 141-157. Each of these Form 1030s indicated at least one reason 4 for the reliability of the information and that the identity of the confidential source could 5 not be disclosed without endangering the source(s) or the security of the institution. Id.
6 Lastly, they all referred to the confidential memorandum dated March 7, 2016, authored by 7 Defendant Petrovic. Id. Accordingly, due process was satisfied with regard to the 8 statements of unidentified informants because the record contains some factual information 9 from which the SHO could reasonably conclude that the information was reliable, e.g., the 10 information corroborated each other, and that safety considerations prevented the 11 disclosure of the informant's names, e.g., Plaintiff's hostile and violent history towards 12 others. Moreover, even if some of these confidential sources were not sufficiently reliable 13 and therefore should not have been considered, the information from the remaining 14 corroborated sources was more than sufficient to constitute "some evidence" with some 15 indicia of reliability. Hill, 472 U.S. at 455; Cato, 824 F.2d at 704-05.

16 Plaintiff requests that the Court conduct an in camera review to determine the 17 reliability of the confidential information. Dkt. No. 133 at 25. However, Hill does not 18 require an examination of the entire record nor an independent assessment of the 19 credibility of witnesses or weighing of the evidence. Hill, 472 U.S. at 455. Furthermore, 20 even if the confidential information was not sufficiently reliable, this alone does not violate 21 due process. Ashker, 81 F.4th at 883. The Court need only determine whether there is any 22 evidence in the record that could support the conclusion reached by the SHO. Hill, 472 23 U.S. at 455. The Court has done so.

24 Defendants have demonstrated the absence of a genuine issue of material fact with 25 respect to this due process claim involving the use of unreliable confidential information.
26 See Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 323. Plaintiff has failed to meet his burden of identifying 27 with reasonable particularity the evidence that precludes summary judgment, see Keenan, 28 91 F.3d at 1279, or submit evidence from which a jury could reasonably render a verdict in

1 his favor, In re Oracle Corporation Securities Litigation, 627 F.3d at 387. Accordingly, 2 Defendants are entitled to summary judgment on this due process claim as a matter of law.
